Jean Kerr "I CAN SEE CLEARLY"

I grew up in a non-conformist home which was quite poor. My dad was a Methodist local preacher and so I always went to church. My early schooling was in a convent where I discovered an awe and wonder in Christianity, however we also had a fear of hell and it took many years before that fear of a fiery place was replaced by an acute sense of God's love.

After a traumatic car accident and an elongated bout of Glandular Fever I found myself training in Durham to be a teacher. Here I met Paul an Anglican Ordinand. Sharing ministry has been our lot since day one and because of Paul's generosity he released much ministry to me way before there was any idea of women being ordained.

God has taken me quite unexpectedly to many areas of the world either speaking in front of thousands or in front of small groups in mud huts in India. It never fails to surprise me that God can use me for His greater glory.

I look forward to being with you all.
