Lyndall Bywater

Lyndall has been hooked on the subject of prayer since she was about 18 years old.

During her student years at Canterbury, Lyndall longed to live a full life as God intended us, to experience it in Jesus Christ, and she knew that was somehow inextricably linked with prayer. Doing a degree in modern languages she spent a year in France as part of a team planting a church in Laval, NE France, and her heart for France and Europe lives on.

She worked in St Mary Bredin Church in Canterbury, as a student and young adult's co-ordinator. She learned to love church as God intended it and began to understand some of the obstacles to praying, and to understand that a praying church is an excitingly dangerous thing!

She spent the next 10 years working as the Salvation Army's prayer co-ordinator - the 24/7 Salvation Army Network 'it was my dream job'.

Now a freelancer, travelling the world teaching on prayer, and writing about it, Lyndall is still involved in a wide range of networks and movements, aiming to promote the importance and power of prayer.

Lyndall will be speaking on the different prayer personalities, and how we just need to be ourselves to have more effective communication and a better relationship with God.
